HISTORY

- 8 None.

PUBLIC CONSULTATION

- 9 None.

OTHER CONSULTATION

- 10 Group Engineer (Highways): The proposed signs are located at a critical section of the junction where they could potentially distract driver's attention at a point where they need to take exceptional care. However, given the low accident rate at this junction and that there is no proven evidence to suggest that advertising signs on traffic islands cause accidents, the Group Engineer Highways, does not feel able, in this case, to raise Highway safety concerns.

ASSESSMENT

- 11 The main issues are
- Policy
 - Amenity
 - Public Safety

Policy

- 12 NPPF paragraph 67 states, “Poorly placed advertisements can have a negative impact on the appearance of the built and natural environment. Control over outdoor advertisements should be efficient, effective and simple in concept and operation. Only those advertisements which will clearly have an appreciable impact on a building or on their surroundings should be subject to the local planning authority’s detailed assessment. Advertisements should be subject to control only in the interests of amenity and public safety, taking account of cumulative impacts”.
- 13 Saved Policy DD14 of the Dudley Unitary Development Plan states that: “The Council will resist the erection of any advertisement which is substantially detrimental to the appearance of the building or on land which it is displayed, or to visual amenity of the surrounding area, or is prejudicial to public safety. “ The Council will also require that any advertisement has regard to the safe use and operation of any form of transport”.

Amenity

- 14 The application site, a traffic roundabout, is located in a principally commercial area, on the edge of Halesowen town centre. It is not considered that the proposed signs in this case could be argued to be harmful to amenity, particularly due to the modest size of the signs (1016mm by 508mm) and the comparatively large size of the roundabout in question.

- 15 In addition the application site or immediate environs are not subject of designations where such a signage could not be considered to be harmful to amenity.

Public Safety

- 16 The proposed signs are located at a critical section of the junction where they could potentially distract driver's attention at a point where they need to take exceptional care.
- 17 The recorded accident history shows that this junction experiences a low accident rate. Given the low accident rate and as there is no proven evidence to suggest that advertising signs on traffic islands cause accidents, the Highway Authority does not raise any safety concerns.

CONCLUSION

- 18 The proposed signage is not considered to cause any significant harm to amenity in that such sponsorship signs have become regular and frequent features of traffic roundabouts. In addition the modest size of the signs and there limited number to the roundabout would not result any significant harm. In addition whilst there are no concerns from a highway safety point of view. Consideration has been given to Saved Policy DD14 Advertisement Control of the Dudley Unitary Development Plan.
